Bartomeu Xiberta O. Carm. (1897-1967) is the author of a magisterial body of work in medieval studies that still represents a pioneering approach to the scholastic heritage of the Carmelite Order. Around 139 commentaries on the Sentences of Peter Lombard composed by Carmelites in universities and priories all over Europe survive. Many of them deserve to be further integrated into the canon of medieval thought, because they represent a rich corpus to explore in order to assess the role of the Carmelites on the global stage of the Middle Ages. This workshop aims to invite scholars to share their expertise and experience with texts produced by Carmelite authors. The goal is to praise Xiberta's contribution, to highlight medieval Carmelite intellectual production, to identify the most preeminent authors, and to depict the doctrinal tendencies of these Carmelite scholastics.
